The City Government Passed Over to the New Administration.

MAYOR BOYD'S CLOSING WORDS.

Inauguration of Mayor Broatch-He Appoints a City Attorney-Last Session of the Council of 1886 and First of That of 1887.

The Old and The New.

It was a state occasion at the new council chamber which was attended by all of the members of the old and new municipal legislative bodies, the city officials retiring and the city officials elect, and fully two hundred interested citizens last evening. President Bechel presided with his accustomed ease, and sixteen aldermaz'e chairs were filled with sixteen outgoing, remaining, and expectant city fathers, while seven others occupied seats in the immediate rear. All of the retiring and new officials were also present.

As a somewhat tedious preliminary it was necessary to dispose of the remaining business of the outgoing council first, and this was done with all possible alac-rity. It will be found subsequently under its own caption. Succeeding the business session of the old council Mayor Boyd was invited by President Bechel to deliver any commu-nication to the council which he might desire, and he therefore presented to the council his concluding message, which is given below. Mayor Boyd's message was heartily applauded.

A recess was then taken until the journal of the old council could be completed.

THE NEW COUNCIL IS BORN. At 9:45 the old council was again called to order, and the journal was approved. Councilman Daily offered a resolution of thanks to President Bechel and City Clerk Southard. President Bechel responded briefly.

Mayor-elect Broatch then came forward and took the oath of office, which was administered to him by Judge Stenberg. As the new mayor responded "I do," the audience broke into applause.

The mayor then signed his official bond, and the instrument, for $20,000, with Byron Reed and William Wallace as sureties, was approved.

Mr. Dailey then said: Now Mr. President, I move you that this council do adjourn sine die. The motion prevailed and the council of 1886 was a memory of the past

Clerk Southard in a few minutes called the new council together. Councilman Lee said: "As it is now our duty to elect a president to preside over us for the next twenty months, I take much pleasure in presenting to you the name of Wm. F. Bechel." Mr. Lee then highly eulogized Mr. Bechel as an impartial presiding officer and genial gentleman.

No other nominations were made and Mr. Bechel was elected by a unanimous

Mr. Bechel said that he regarded the election on this occasion as a triple honor as it was the third time he had been thus dignified. If the past was any criterion of the future he would assure the council that he would use his best endeavors to extend impartiality and justice

Mr. Bailey placed in nomination for city clerk Joseph B. Southard. Mr. Southard was elected by a unanimous vote and briefly returned his thanks.

Mr. Hascall presented a motion to adjourn, but withdrew it in view of two communications from the mayor. The following were the communications:
Appointing Morris Morrison, John H.
Butler and W. H. Spaulding as appraisers on land adjoining Lake street which is taken in widening that street. Confirmed Appointing John L. Webster as city attorney.

Councilman Lee moved that this communication be referred to the committee on judiciary. Councilman Ford moved as an amendment that the appointment be immediately confirmed. He said that all of the councilmen knew Mr. Webster as well now as they would in a week.

Councilman Lee said it had been an established custom of the conneil to refer all appointments to the judicary committee and it ought not to be overridden. Furthermore, he did not think that to confirm an appointment of city attorney in a minute was paying proper respect to a faithful city official who, as city at-torney, had saved the city hundreds of thousands of dollars—City Attorney Connell.

Councilman Hascall said he thought that immediate disposal of such an appointment seemed to him too hasty.
While he had no disposition to antagonize the mayor, he thought it would be but proper to await until the council could have at least one committee meeting.

The amendment was lost and the motion to refer prevailed. The official bonds of city officials were presented and accepted. The bond of John Rush, for city treasurer, is for $200,000 with Fred W. Gray, M. Toft, Patrick Mancing, Dennis Cunningham, Lewis S. Reed and Michael Donovan as sureties.

Councilman Manville introduced the first ordinance of the new council, it being for the location of water hydrants at the intersections of twelve streets and in the center of Twenty-fifth street. Councilman Lee introduced a resolution declaring the standing committees of the council to be those on judiciary finance, claims, grades and grading, streets and alleys, police, public property and buildings, fire and waterworks, gas and electric lights, sidewalks bridges, printing, sewerage, paving, curbing and guttering, viaducts and railways, boulevards, plats and additions, and rules: and all committees to consist of three members except (upon amend-mant of Mr. Hascall) grades and grading which is to consist of five members.

The council then adjourned. Proceedings of the Council of 1886. The following communications were received and acted upon: From the Mayor-Approving ordinances passed at the last meeting of the council. On file.

Also, appointing M. W. Kennard, H. P. Deuel and John S. Caulfield as appraisers of property taken by the city for the extension of Cass street. Confirmed. Also, appointing John B. Furay, Edwin Dayis and William Anderson as appraisers of like property taken for the extension of Thirteenth street.

Also, appointing for appraisement of condemned property for extension of Newton street, Morris Morrison, W. A. Spaulding and B. F. Madsden. Also, appointing for appraisement of damages resulting from an alley in block 15, Hanseom place, the same appraisers. Also, for damages resulting from the change of Cass street grade, John B. Furay, W. A. L. Gibbon and St. A. D.

All were confirmed. REPORTS.

From the Committee on Grades and Grading: Recommending that the contract and bond of Stuht & Hamel for the grading of Eleventh and Fourteenth streets be approved. Adopted.

From the Same: Recommending the passage of an ordinance ordering the completion of the grading of Twenty ninth avenue around Hanseom park.

Adopted. From the Same Committee: Recommending passage of the ordinance es-tablishing the grade of an alley between Ninth and Tenth streets. Adopted. From the Committee on Boulevard and Parks: Recommending that the council advertise for bids upon sodding the grounds around Hanscom park before taking final action upon an ordinance ordering the same. Adopted. The appraisers for the property on Sixteenth street, adjoing Kountze & Ruth's addition, reported that the value was 30 cents a square foot.

The appraisers upon lot 8, block 14, reported adversely to the offer of B. F. Smith of 6 cents per square foot, and said it was worth now 20 cents.

The appraisers on the property derived from narrowing Twenty-second street, between Davenport and Nicholas streets, reported that the land was worth from 50 to 30 cents per square foot.

The appraisers on property derived from narrowing Webster street, reported the value to be 25 cents per square

All these appraisement reports were adopted. The chairman of the city, appraisers' reported the bill of the two appraisers accompanying him as $96 each. The report was adopted and the unanimous thanks of the council were tendered to Chairman The report of the board of equalization was adopted. A resolution by Mr. Schroeder refunding money to parties who had paid more than the latest appraisement on Nineteenth street property was passed.

Another communication, from the agent of Sells Bros', show, C. T. Sivalls, stating that the city license for a circus, $500, is prohibitory to all tent shows. and asking the council to reduce it to $250, was referred to the committee on fire and police to be appointed.

Mayor Boyd's Valedictory. Gentlemen of the City Council: In compliance with an honored custom, and in conformity with the law, at the close of my second term. I herewith submit a general state ment of the situation and condition of the city in relation to its government, finances and improvements. It is not my intention to enter into any lengthy dissertation, but in the briefest manner possible give you a synopsis of what has been accomplished during the past two years, and of the condition of city affairs at the present time. Before doing so, however, allow me to congratulate you, and through you the people of the community, upon the almost marvelous rapidity of the growth of Omaha, the standing it has attained in the commercial world, the general healthfulness of its inhabitants, and its freehealthfulness of its inhabitants, and its free-dom from calamities by fire or other causes. At the commencement of my administration I found a floating indebtedness of over $125,000, for the payment of which, at the election of 1885, bonds to the amount of $100,000 were voted; $103,125 were realized from the sale of said bonds, leaving still an indebtedness of over $23,000, which was paid out of the general fund. The treasurer's re-port shows a total bonded indebtedness of $1,048,950, and of this there is still in the paying fund $28,212,91. Contracts for paying $1,048,950, and of this there is still in the paving fund $28,212.91. Contracts for paving are already let whereby this latter amount, and perhaps two or three thousand dollars more, will be required for the payment of paving intersections. It has been the policy of the city council and mayor at all times to keep within the limit of expenditure and no liability has been incurred beyond the sum at our disposal. The financial condition of the city is in the best possible shape, its credit is high in the money centers, better to-day than ever before. While it is true there are some unpaid bills outstanding there are enough in the special outstanding there are enough in the special and judgment funds together with the amount which will be reserved as purchase amount which will be reserved as purchase money for strips of streets vacated and ordered sold to adjoining property holders to more than pay all obligations.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

By an examination of the report of the chairman of the board of public works, it will be seen that during the past year there were expended for grading $125,550; paying, $341,000, divided as follows: 86,200 yards of cedar block payement; 17,000 yards of Colorado sandstone and 43,000 of asphaltum.

For sewerage the sum of $120,400 was expended and for curbing and guttering pended and for curbing and guttering

Two viaducts over the railroad tracks were constructed (which will greatly inure to the advantage and safety of the residents in the southern part of the city) at a cost of $118,663. Other expenditures for sidewalks. cross walks and about $1,800 on account of the city hall building will make the total for all purposes expended during the past fiscal year over $800,000. All the work done has een of the most substantial character and he city has received full value for every dollar of this amount.

The board of public works is, in my opinion, one of the most important departments of the city government. Upon it rests the responsibility for the faithful performance of all contract work, and I cannot too highly compliment its present chairman for the effi-cient manner in which he has filled the posi-

ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT. The city engineer's report will show you the kind and magnitude of the public improvements, the substantial character of which has attracted attention of citizens not also of those which has attracted attention of citizens not only of Missouri river towns but also of those of eastern cities. We have altogether four-teen and three-fourths miles of paved streets, one and a third miles of paved alleys and thirty miles of sewerage, the total cost of which exceeds the sum of two and one fourth million dollars. This, for a city that five years ago was without pavement or sewerage, is certainly creditable to those who have been in the management of its affairs.

SUPERINTENDENT OF BUILDINGS. From the report of the superintendent of buildings, it will be seen that for the nine months ending March 31, 1887, there were permits issued for the erection of 1,256 buildings at an estimated cost of about $4,000,000. Since the creation of this office a better class of buildings is being erected. The fees collected, I think, are too high, as they more than pay the expenses of the office and should be reduced. The working force in this department must be increased, temporarily at least. There are many valuable suggestions in this report which require the attention of the next council.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS. Our public schools have long been the pride of our citizens and the wonder and admiration of strangers who visited us. The ex-penditure for the year 1885 was $265,348.05, of which amount $167,541.95 were obtained of which amount $107,541.95 were obtained from license and fines. From the same source the present year the amount will ex-ceed $250,000. Our schools being entirely under the control of the board of education, the mayor and council have but little else to do than to provide funds for their maintenance, which has always been done in the most which has always been done in the most willing and liberal manner. Indeed I am confident that more is spent, and will be spent, in the education of children by this city in proportion to its population, than by any other in the United States,

POLICE DEPARTMENT. Under the new charter the police department of the city will be re-organized and the number of men increased. The force at present consisting of forty men is entirely too small, and, under the cercumstances, the only wonder is, that such good order has been as generally preserved. With few exceptions the men are intelligent and capable, but as the men are intelligent and capable, but as "a stream cannot rise higher than its fountain head," neither can a body of men be vigilant and efficient when controlled by ignorance and stupidity.

LAW DEPARTMENT. There are 157 suits now against the city, involving the sum of $2.8,043.42. During my term of office claims against the city aggregating the sum of $203.441.62 have been disposed of, the city being held not liable to the extent of one dellar.

posed of, the city being held not liable to the extent of one dollar.

The balance now remaining in the judgment fund is $13,198.48. This fund would have been practically intact but for appropriations made for the payment of damages awarded by appraisers for opening streets, etc., in cases where the parties appealed and subsequently accepted the amount of the award.

The city attorney has been active in procuring evidence in every case, and the 'a w department has been managed with signal ability and assidulty.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

We have thus far reviewed the progress of our city and we now come to the report of the fire department. By this it will be seen that for the year ending March 31, 1887 the number of alarms was 137 and the total loss $128,520. The expenditure of the department for all purposes was $40,986.23. The fire department as at present organized is about as efficient as it could be, and I account for this on the ground that the chief has been allowed to choose his own men and be judge of their capability.

The supply and pressure of water for fire purposes has not been jentirely satisfactory, even in the business portion of the city, and hydrants in the vicinity of and for some distance this side of Hanscom park and also in the vicinity of Tenth and Castellar streets are of but little avail. This matter will require the immediate attention of the incomquire the immediate attention of the incom-ing mayor and council. Engines will have to be used to protect such portions of the city, or else a system of stand pipes must be erected.

or else a system of stand pipes must be erected.

While I found it necessary many times to disagree with the council. I endeavored on every occasion to give plain and incontrovertable reasons therefor, and although a majority of the members differ with me politically, they have in almost every instance sustained my official acts.

My one aim has been the welfare of Omaha and I have the proud satisfaction of knowing and I have the proud satisfaction of knowing that in vacating office I leave its affairs in the very best condition possible.

Very Respectfully.

JAMES E. BOYD, Mayor.

POLICE AND FIRE COMMISSION. They Will Not Appoint the Chief Immediately-Rumors.

The police and fire commissioners met yesterday and qualified. In [view of the fact that Mayor-elect Broatch, who is ex-officio a member of the board, had not yet been inducted into office, no other business was transacted. Commissioner Hartman stated that it will be two or three days before the commission will select a chief of police.

Commissioner Bennett said: "A very important thing for us is to get a good chief, a good, first-class man. That's what we have got to do." It was rumored late last evening that the question had been asked of John Mc-Donald if he would accept second place on the police force. To this, the story goes, McDonald asked: "Under whom?" The reply was, "Butler." McDonaid thereupon said "No." Whether this was a pointer that Butler is the coming man may be judged as everyone pleases.

The Painters in Session.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the painters met at Metz hall in this city to discuss the differences between themselves and employers. Master Workman Wm. W. Craven presided and Secretary James H. Hunt handled the minutes.

When the gavel fell and the audience was seated, the sight was a splendid tribute to honest labor of America. Probably no more intelligent, neatly dressed and orderly body of men ever assembled. The prevailing order and quiet of the assemblage showed clearly that uppermost in the minds of all was the full appreciation of the situation and the determination to meet the issues at hand in a calm, business-like, yet determined manner. Some time was consumed in examinations by a committee, and it was about 10:15 when the master workman called to order. Mr. Craven then addressed the members with a few timely remarks. To the press he re-turned the thanks of the painters for the fairness and kindness they had received at its hands. In the present strike the painters had made every offer to the employers for a fair and equitable arbitration of the differences, but in every instance had been meet with the plain "Accept our terms or accept none."

The men who now demand an increase of wages are the ones whose skilled labor and artistic touch made the collosal granduer which potentates feasted their eyes upon, and monopolists enjoyed, and between them and the public was a fra-ternal tie which warranted them in expoeting its endorsement of any just and fair demand which they should make. He cautioned the members from doing anything which might be construed wrongfully. In the present crisis the painters had, to be successful, enjoy the endorsement of the honest citizens and the confidence of the general public in their good intentions. And if their de mands should be acceded to and they should be successful, then if they saw fit to celebrate the righting of a wrong they growing city, and, endorsed by the law and justice loving public march out be-neath the folds of the stars and stripes, the great banner of truth, liberty and Mr. Craven's address was loudly applauded. Secretary Huntreported several paint-ers still at work and the matter was referred to the executive committee. A communication was presented from the master painters in which they agreed to pay 274 cents per hour for first class painters, pay paper hangers the same wages as heretofore and permitali hands, save those blacklisted, to return to work, provided the workmen should not be per mitted to dictate whom should and should not be employed. The communication was tabled.

The master workman announced that the executive committee had decided that no man should go to work and that all should to-day be called out.

The secretary reported several applications for painters to do small jobs and the executive committee was instructed to appoint men for the work. Mr. Atwater addressed the meeting in a few well chosen words in which he gave considerable encouragement said that the principal shops in the city were willing to accede to their terms and with determination and good order the painters would succeed. At noon the meeting took a recess and at 3 o'clock was again called to order, when a number of reports of the committee were received and disposed The session continued until 5 o'clock, when it adjourned until this morning at 9 o'clock

The Master Painters Make a Proposal At a meeting of the Master House Painters association last evening a resolution was carried to extend to the painters and paper hangers the following propositions:

Resolved, That we, the Master Painters association of Omaha, tender to the painters and paper hangers in this city, now on a strike, the following propositions: 1. If you will join or give, us satisfactory proof that you do now belong to the organiza-tion of Knights of Labor, we will at any

DISTRICT COURT.

Sam DeNedrey has commenced a suit for divorce from his wife, Clara DeNedrey. The petition states that they were married in Clarinda, Page county, on November 14, 1882. It charges the defendant with extreme cruelty and desertion since February 6, 1886. Among the instances of extreme cruelty are enumer ated the failure of the defendant to pre pare the plaintiff's meals, and also that she used the following harrowing lan-guage: "You are a round-shouldered humpback and look like a monkey:" "you are a stinking, begraded printer;" "you deadbeat, as soon as I get $500 ahead I will leave you, never to return."
The petition goes on to allege that Clara did wait until she got $500, which was the result of the plaintiff's toil, and that she did leave him and took it with her. Other actions have been begun as fol-lows: William A. Gwyer vs. Mary Spalding, to quiet title in property the plain-tiff has possession of. Joseph Hartman vs Gustave Anderson, James Hiland, and C. W. Kile. The complainant avers that Anderson, who is a justice of the peace, and Kile, who is a constable, have conspired with Hiland dispossess the plaintiff of his home to which he claims to have a clear title and against which he alleges the defendants have no lawful claim. An injunction upon them is asked for. Judge Wakeley issued a restraining order against the defendants, returnable on the 14th inst. Some interesting developments are promised

The African Methodist Episcopal church of Omaha has asked the court's permission to place a mortgage for $3,500 on property.

Sad Death of a Child. The young child of Mr. Hageman, the well known commission merchant, died last evening from taking carbolic acid. It seems that the drug was accidentally placed where the child could get at it. The first knowledge of the baby having taken the drug was too late for human aid, although several prominent physicians were called at once. Mr. and Mrs. Hageman have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends in this sad episode in their happy family life.

Nearly Asphyxiated.

Chris Wilson was working in the gas company's trenches near St. Joseph's hospital yesterday when the flow from a defective pipe overcome him. Very forunately his fellow workman discovered him, and Dr. Dysart was summoned. Nelson was removed to his home corner Twenty-second and Mason streets, and the prospecte are that he will recover, although his condition is precarious.

AN EDITOR HONORED.

Brilliant Testimonial to Colonel Taylor of the Boston Globe. y 10,-It was a noted gathering of prominent business and professional men and distinguished journalists of New England and other parts of the country that sat down to the banquet tables in the Hotel Vendome in this city to-night. The banquet was a personal testimonial from the business men of this city to Colorel Charles A. Taylor, editor, manager and one of the proprietors of the Boston Globe. Among the known journalists present well were Charles A. Dana, of the New York Sun; George W. Childs, New York Sun; George W. Childs, of the Philadelphia Ledger; John P. Cockerill, of the New York World; M. A. Handy, of the Philadelphia News; Charles Emory Smith, of the Philadelphia Press; Joel Cook, of the Philadelphia Ledger, who is also American representative of the London Times; John F. Baker, of the St. Paul Globe, and others. In addition to the paper men there were present many prominent officials and citizens and well known business men, in all nearly 300, Colonel French was chairin all nearly 300, Colonel French was chair-man, and, after the edibles had been disposed of, arose, and in a speech which was devoted largely to the description of the personal characteristics which had brought such success to Colonel Taylor, introduced that gentleman. Three rousing cheers greeted the colonel as he arose to respond. His remarks were expressive of his gratification at the many marks of appreciation shown by his friends. He declared that this was the most gratifying of all receiving such was the most gratifying of all, receiving such a testimonial from such a company of representative Boston business men. Charles A. Dana was next introduced. He paid an eloquent tribute to the recipient of the testimonial. Incidentally he referred to Harvard college as the great preparatory school of journalism, and said that it was in school of journalism, and said that it was in that institution that he learned all he ever knew of the principles of journalism. His remarks were followed by Mayor O'Brien, Joseph Howard, jr., George Alfred Town-send, John Boyle O'Reilly, Colonel John A. Cockerill, Charles Emery Smith, M. R. Handy and others.
